1. In 1948 the Bulgarian Council of Ministers, acting on instructions from the USSR, established an ad-hoc committee of specialists to work out an appropriate plan for consumption of electricity in the larger cities and towns of Bulgaria and for interurban transmission of electric current. The planned aim was to be achieved by October 1958.
2. Members of the ad-hoc committee included Professors Khristov (fm) and Manchev (fm), and Engineers Konstantinov (fm) and Mikhaylov (fm).
3. Included as an appendix is a sketch map depicting consumption and interurban transmission of electricity as planned for October 1958. The figures are expressed in 1000 kilowatts.
